PRIV. HENRY SWANSON WOUNDED THIRD TIME

COMPANY M BOY AGAIN IN RED CROSS BASE HOSPITAL—NOW HAS THREE WOUND STRIPES.

WRITES FROM FRONT

Corp. John McDearmid Writes From Southern France Telling of Experiences At Front.

Wounded for the third time during the past two months, Private Henry Swanson, a former Company M member, again lies in a Red Cross hospital back of the front. Private Swanson tells of receiving his third wound while fighting at the front in a letter just received here by his brother, George Swanson of 599 South High Street. He was wounded on the 5th of July, having taken part in the American attack on Chateau Thierry against the Germans.

Another Company M boy, Corp. John McDearmid, has written from France telling of his experiences at the front. Corporal McDearmid, at the time of this writing, was evading the southern border near the Italian front, where American troops were first stationed in force.

Following is the letter of Private Swanson: Somewhere in France July 7, 1918. Well, I'm back in the hospital again, I'm having tough luck over here. I had come back from the hospital and had been with the company four days when I got it again. Well I can sport three wound stripes now. I'm in a Red Cross hospital this time. They certainly are good people. They treat the boys fine and the cats are good. They give us cigarettes and the daily newspapers. We get little money, but for four months, haven't been paid here. I suppose you read about us boys over here being wounded. If you can, send me the paper clippings about us boys. We get little news over here. Well, I bet you had a good Fourth of July, I didn't know—I was hit on the 5th.

PRIV. HENRY A. SWANSON, 12th Inf., Corp. John McDearmid's letter reads as follows: Somewhere in France July 12, 1918. We are still in reserve, but I think we will leave soon to go back to some town for a rest. When I say rest I mean digging trenches and building more wire fence. In the last three days I have enough wire entanglements to reach from Chicago to Janville a couple of times. All around us here in our summer home on the hillside are some of those big grand old oaks and then they get noisy and give the Germans something to think about. This morning about four o'clock they woke up giving them "go to it" and forgot all about it. It sounds good to hear them singing through the air and break somewhere in Germany. I would like to see one bird among about a dozen Dutchmen and all get an equal share of scrap iron. They have just started in to give them some and to let them know we are still here and on the job.

NEW DRAFT TO REACH 366,000 IN WISCONSIN

Wisconsin's registration for the proposed new draft law, which will roll those between the ages of 18 and 41 and 45 years, is 366,000 according to Major E. A. Fitzpatrick. The number of men in Wisconsin under 21 years of age is about 8,750 by this time, and are about 5,000.

Major Fitzpatrick is continually receiving questions as to the class in which different persons will be placed. To clear this confusion the state draft department announced yesterday that letters would be sent to all of the local boards today outlining a method by which the proposed draft will be conducted.

The governor's office has received a long telegram from Provost Marshal General Crowder asking that legislation be made in anticipation that legislation extending the present draft ages will early be enacted by congress.

Adjutant General Orlando Holway says that he will make use of the present draft machinery of the state to make the registration. The first draft in Wisconsin was conducted by use of the election machine and the last one was conducted by use of the draft boards of the state. The latter method will be used in the new registration.

Estimates indicate that the proposed registration will enroll one and one-third times as many registrants as the first registration of June 1917. At the time of the first registration 250,000 men between the ages of 21 and 31 were enrolled.

Announcements will be made for the next meeting.

A typographical error: A typographical error was made in the evening's report of the closing of the market. The closing of the market was 1.64 1/2, not 1.64 1/4.

YESTERDAY'S MARKETS

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Packer refused to follow a 10¢ higher hog market, which new record was made at $20.05. Cattle trade was slow, even good bullocks feeling the drooping influence. Fat lambs held steady and a new record was made on feeders. Sheep lost ground.

Fresh meat trade was adversely influenced by hot weather, common beef accumulating at Atlantic seaboard points. High run of cattle locally saved the day, peddling being necessary for a clearance. The advance in hogs was due to shortage, the market having a top-heavy appearance. High prices for fat sheep have increased receipts this week, the slight reaction being logical.

Western advices indicated a heavy run of range cattle next week. Kansas City had $2.00 for cattle and $1.00 for hogs. Omaha congestion existed. A few more here would have caused trouble for the selling side. No relief has reached the Southwest, car orders being heavy.

Hog Quality Lower

Hog quality is steadily deteriorating, a larger percentage of packing sows reporting each week that is putting a premium on choice light hogs, the spread being practically $1.50 per cwt. between these and common packs.

M. H. Travis, president of the National Live Stock Exchange Bank, said: "Feeders will have no difficulty in getting money from banks in the federal reserve system. The trouble is due to the fact that many country banks are carrying all the cattle paper they can handle with their own money. The federal reserve bank is discounting large quantities of cattle paper and all reputable feeders will be taken care of."

Rules under which traders at the stock yards will operate as government inspectors will be issued today. Commission men, traders and order buyers must have individual licenses, packers requiring but one license for the buyers they employ. No restriction in speculation is contemplated if conducted according to the rules.

COLLEGES TO HELP PRODUCE OFFICERS

G. A. R. LADIES MEET—General John P. Reynolds Circle No. 41, Ladies of the G. A. R., will meet tonight in Caledonia hall.

Dr. Richard C. McLaurin.

War department officials and heads of American colleges are laying plans to make every college in the country a training school for officers. Military officials have made it clear that the training camps alone cannot produce officers fast enough. Dr. Richard C. McLaurin, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been named by Secretary Baker to organize the college training plan and appoint regional advisers.

BAND OF GYPSIES IS DISPERSED BY SHERIFF WHIPPLE

Ordered Out of Rock County—Camped Over Night Four Miles South of City on Emerald Grove Road.
Gypsies are about as welcome in Rock county as a downpour of rain on a circus day. The wandering dark-skinned, dark-skinned knights of the state, early this morning Sheriff Whipple and Under-Sheriff Fred Beckley, in response to numerous complaints from farmers, made a trip four miles south of the city on the Emerald Grove road where they dispersed a band of nomadic people who had camped along the roadside overnight.
There were about twenty people in the camp of all sizes and descriptions and they were all handed their passports out of Rock county by Sheriff Whipple.

RELEASED BY JUDGE TO GO TO MICHIGAN

Frank Wade told Judge Maxfield this morning that he wanted to go to Michigan. He stated that he was not a vagrant and that he would work when he was able to return to Michigan. Wade is badly crippled, having lost both his legs. Judge Maxfield released him and Frank will leave immediately for Michigan.

Arthur Robertson and Thomas M. Hanna, who were arraigned last week on charges of vagrancy, were both in court this morning and assured Judge Maxfield that they were working. The cases were dismissed.

LIEUT. ELLINGSON BRINGS NEWS OF COMPANY M BOYS

COMPANY M OFFICER, RETURNED FROM FRANCE, SAYS ROCK COUNTY SOLDIERS ARE "ALL O. K."

WILL ATTEND CAMP

Lieut. Ellingson Will Leave For Officers' Training Camp At Camp Pike, Ark.—Will Return Overseas.

"We're feeling fine, and the life's great." This is the message brought from Company M soldiers in France to Rock county mothers and fathers by Lieut. Leon Ellingson of Edgerton, who arrived home Wednesday evening from overseas. Lieut. Ellingson was given a tremendous ovation last night when he spoke to a large gathering at the community picnic in Edgerton. The Co. M officer was cheered to the echo when he was called upon the band stand to give a short speech during a program of community singing.

Lieutenant Ellingson told his eager and enthusiastic hearers how the Rock county boys, who left here with Company M are finding life at the front in France. He stated that the boys are all O. K. and are giving the best that is in them for democracy's victory. For military reasons, Lieut. Ellingson stated that he could not give all the information he would like to concerning Company M's location on the fighting front.

Lieutenant Ellingson is in Janesville today to deliver messages to anxious parents from their soldier sons who went with Company M to overseas duty. He left France before the opening of the allied offensive on the Marne front, and did not know of the wounding of several Company M boys in the drive until he arrived in this country. Lieut. Ellingson wears the overseas duty cap and a gold chevron on his left coat sleeve which signifies that he has been in the overseas service for six months. He is on leave of absence from his company and will spend a short furlough at his home before entering an officers' training camp at Camp Pike, Ark. He is probably to be assigned as an instructor at the officers' camp for a short time, and later return to duty overseas.

SCHOOL CHILDREN SHOULD ARRANGE FOR EXHIBITS NOW

Display Articles for Janesville Fair—Should be Taken to Court House or High School Before Monday Noon.

Rock county school children who plan to exhibit at the fair next week should make arrangements now so that they can be placed on display. Students of the rural schools should take their exhibits to Supt. C. D. Antidale's office at the court house before Monday noon. Exhibits of fresh bread, cake and cookies must be taken to the building before ten o'clock Wednesday morning.

As there is no fee for any of the school children's exhibits it is expected that a large number will enter with a hope of winning prizes.

City pupils' exhibits should be taken to the high school and given to Mr. West or Mr. Burnham.

MRS. WM. WETZEL IN THE CALABOOSE

Taken Into Custody on Execution to Attach Her Property in Default of Payment of Judgment.
Taken into custody on an execution issued by Judge Maxfield, Mrs. William Wetzel, who is charged with the same charge placed against her some time ago—conducting a disorderly house. When arraigned on this charge, Mrs. Wetzel was ordered to pay the fine the judge yesterday, or be committed to the jail. She was unable to do this, to lodge her in a cell at the county jail for a term of sixty days. The chief chose the latter.

NEW INTERPRETATION OF GOVERNMENT ORDER

In a government bulletin issued by the War Industries Board, regarding the Chamber of Commerce, concerning the one delivery plan to be put in operation in Janesville, beginning August 19, the statement is made that the restriction on returned merchandise is interpreted to mean three days in the customer's possession. It is to be applied in all cases except for error on the part of the seller or because of defective merchandise.

COMMITTEE WISHES THAT NAMES BE HANDED IN

JANESVILLE SOLDIER WRITES FROM FRANCE

George Clatworthy, a former well known Janesville boy, but now in France, has written a letter to his father, C. W. Clatworthy, of South Franklin street. In his letter Clatworthy states that he has just arrived overseas and that the trip across was delightful and that it took about twelve days. His letter follows: "Somewhere in France, July 12, 1918.

I arrived over across here in great shape. It was twelve days on the ocean. The weather was fine and the sea was not a bit rough at any time. We are now camped at quite an important place in France, but I do not want to say where. I am glad to see the olive drab boys, by their actions. We are a long ways from the front and we have not the slightest idea when we will get there. All the boys seem cheerful and do not seem to dread going at all. It is hard to write as we are not telling anything that pertains to war, so I will quit for this time, but will write again soon. So good-bye, From George.

GARBAGE PROBLEM WILL BE SOLVED BY NEW MEASURE

Feeding of Garbage to Swine Has Solved Problem in Many Cities. Garbage Ordinance Will Solve Problem.

Feeding to swine under clean conditions and surroundings has very nearly solved the garbage disposal problem, according to experts who have made a study of the subject for the benefit of the large research department of the city.

Janesville's garbage problem will be thus solved through the measure now pending in the city council. A committee from the Chamber of Commerce and a similar one from the city council have held several conferences and at the last meeting of the council, Chairman Dulin of the council committee had presented a comprehensive study of the situation in Janesville as made by P. H. Korst, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee. City Attorney Cunningham, who is co-operating with the joint committee, pointed out the existence of an ordinance known as No. 35, adopted June 7, 1912, that in a great measure covers the recommendations as made by the joint committee, but does not provide the means of its enforcement. Mr. Cunningham said that this ordinance will be of great value in drafting a working ordinance to provide for adequate disposal of the city's present needs and that of the future.

Quoting from the ordinance, section 1, the words "Garbage and Offal" as used in this ordinance shall be held to include every accumulation of animal, fruit, or vegetable matter that attends the preparation, use, cooking, dealing in or storage of meat, fish, fowl, fruits, vegetables, and it shall be unlawful for any person to place in the garbage vessels any ashes, old cans, broken dishes, or any dry waste whatever other than those designed for the purpose. It has been pointed out very definitely that the question of garbage largely enters into the sanitary conditions and health of the municipality, and inasmuch as Janesville soon will expand largely, the joint committee has determined that adequate means be determined upon at once to provide for the greater city.

Under the proposed plan housewifery must provide a suitable receptacle of metal with a proper cover, which will be placed in a place accessible to the collector. A charge to be determined upon will be made for the service. No collection in operation, however, regular collections will without doubt prove the wisdom of the move. Another very important fact to be known is that garbage must be kept dry. This determination is rendered and sanitary conditions maintained. It has been shown that in most cities housewives use a container of some kind which permits the garbage to pass off thus leaving dry matter. Glass and other metals must not be placed with the garbage under the proposed ordinance. Hotels, restaurants and other places probably will have daily collection service. The contractor will under the ordinance have to deposit with the city a suitable bond and be liable to a fine imposed for dereliction of duty. Sanitary metal vehicles will be insisted upon if the full import of the ordinance is carried out. The government is urging the feeding of garbage to swine inasmuch as it thus pays a very satisfactory return. This committee has given very serious consideration to the subject and it is expected that at the next meeting of the council some definite action will be taken.

DRINK MORE MILK

Milk is HIGH in food value, LOW in cost. Every family can afford to buy PLENTY of fresh, pure, rich milk EVERY DAY.

Milk is MORE IMPORTANT in the daily diet than expensive meats. LESS meat, MORE milk—try it.

Milk contains many of the MOST VITAL food elements in their natural, most digestible form. It quenches the thirst, nourishes the body.
Drink more milk, use more milk in cooking and baking. Milk has a hundred uses. Any dish containing milk is rich in food value. Substitute milk for many more expensive, less nutritious foods.

We sell from the herds of Dr. Wayne A. Munn and F. O. Uehling, which is all from tuberculin tested cows.

I thought I knew what tough cookies were, in the trenches, but they were regular mollycoddles compared to the men we had in the prison camps. After we had our clothes we would be free from them for more than two hours, and then they would come back, with reinforcements, thinking for vengeance.

The camp at Neustrelitz was surrounded by big dogs, which were kept just outside the barbed wire. We had them along all the time. Every once in a while, some fellow would make an awful racket, and the next thing we knew, there was Fritz coming like a shot, with musket at his hip, just as they carry them in a charge, and blowing whistles at each other until they were blue in the face. Whenever they thought some one was escaping, they ran twice as fast as I

AMERICANS KNOW A GOOD THING

Trust the People to Find Out What is Good for Them

All over the country folks are learning that after the long hard winter, back of green food and fresh air, they are usually run down, have no appetite, are nervous and in bad shape generally.

Spring to them is a season to be dreaded. Their thin, watery, poisoned blood and weak nerves rob them of all action or desire to work and take the pleasure out of life.

For such men and women doctors are recommending Phosphated Iron which goes to the very root of all blood impurities and nervous troubles. They claim it helps purify the blood by making it over new, while the way it follows food, feeds the nerves is almost too good to be true.

The confidence that the American people and prominent doctors have shown in Phosphated Iron, while remarkable, is not surprising, as it is one of those honest preparations that never disappoints. As a man said in recommending it to his neighbors, "It's a fact that count, and you can bank on Phosphated Iron it is the 'goods', everyone that tries it is a booster. It sure did put me on my feet when I was almost down and out."

Every man, woman and child that has thin, watery impure blood, no strength, or appetite, weak nerves and is all played out generally, can come back strong, be a live one once again, enjoy restful sleep and get up facing the world with a smile if they will try Phosphated Iron, the red blood and nerve builder.

To insure physicians and their patients getting the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put in capsules only do not take pills or tablets. Insist on capsules. Smith Drug Co., and leading druggists everywhere. Advertisement.

at Dixmore. When they got up to the dogs, they would first talk to them and then kick them, and after that, they would rest, their rifles on the wall and yell "Zurück" at us. We all enjoyed this innocent pastime very much, and we were glad they had the dogs.

There were some things the Huns did that you just could not explain. For instance, one of the Russians walked out of the kitchen, as we were passing, and we heard a bang! and the Russian keeled over and went west. Now, we had not done anything and the other Russians said he had behaved himself, worked hard and had never had any trouble. They just killed him, and that is all there was to it. But not one of us could figure out why.

After we had been at Neustrelitz for three weeks, they drilled us out of the camp to a railway station, and stood us in the snow for four hours waiting for the train. We were exhausted and began falling, one by one, and each time one of us fell, the sentries would yell, "Nicht krank!" and give us the rifle butt. We had our choice of standing up and dying or falling down and being killed, and it was a fine choice to have to make.

The cars finally pulled in, and as usual, the windows were smashed, the doors open, and the compartments just packed with snow. When we saw this, we knew we were going to get worse treatment, even than we had been getting, and many of us wanted to die. It had not been unusual for some of the men to tell the Germans to shoot them too, and it seems as though it was always a man who wanted to live who did get it and went west.

However, all of us nearly got killed when we reached Wittenberg. When the train stopped there, we saw a big wagonload of sliced bread on the station platform and we all stared at it. We stood it as long as we could, and then we made a rush for it. But when we got nearer, we saw that there were four sentries guarding it and four women issuing it out to the German soldiers. They would not give us any, of course.

So we stood around and watched the Huns eat it, while they and the women laughed at us, and pretended that they were starving and would groan and rub their stomachs and say, "Nichts zu essen," to each other, and then grab a big hunk of bread and eat it. What we did not say to them was very little indeed. We were certainly wild if any men ever were.

Then some of us said we were going to get some of that bread if we went west for it. So we started a fight, and while they were attending to some of us, the others grabbed and hid all the bread they could. They roused us back into the cars and we were just starting to divide up the bread when they caught us with it and took it away. We were wilder than ever then, but we could not do anything.

It got colder after we left Wittenberg, and the snow blew into the cars through the windows and doors until we were afraid to sleep for fear of freezing. It was the coldest night I have ever seen, and the coal burners on the Yarrowdale seemed like a palace compared to the compartments, because we could at least move around in the ship, while in the train we could not move at all, and were packed so close that we could not even stretch our legs and arms. Some of the men did die, but not in my compartment, though most of us were frost-bitten about the face.

We thought that night would never end, but day came finally, and though it seemed to get colder and colder, we did not mind it so much. At about eleven that morning, we arrived at a place called Minden and saw a prison camp there—just a stockade near the tracks with the boys out in the open. We waved to them, and they waved back and gave a cheer or two. We felt sorry for them, because we knew we were not going to that camp, and from what little we saw, we knew we could not be going to a worse place than they were in. I shall never forget Minden, because it was here that I received the only cigarette I had while I was in Germany.

Minden is quite a railway center, I guess, and when we pulled into the depot, we saw many troops going to the front or coming back. As at all important German railway stations, there was a Red Cross booth on the platform, with German girls handing out barley coffee and other things to the German soldiers. I saw a large shanty on the platform, with a Red Cross painted over the door. I saw the girls giving barley coffee to the soldiers, and I thought I would have a try at it and at least be polite enough to give the girls a chance of refusing me. I was refused all right, but they were so nasty about it that I put down my head and let something slip. I do not remember just what it was, but it was not very complimentary, I guess. Anyhow, I did not think anyone near there understood English, but evidently some one heard me who did, for I got an awful boot that landed me ten or twelve feet away. I fell on my hands and knees, and about a yard away I saw a cigarette stub. I dived for it like a man falling on a football, and when I came up that stub was safely in my pocket. And it stayed there until I reached Dulmen and had a chance to light it behind the barracks. If any of the other men had smelled real tobacco, they would probably have murdered me, and I could not do it myself.

That was the first and last cigarette I got in Germany, and you can believe me when I say that I enjoyed it. There was not much to it, but I smoked it until there was not enough left to hold in my mouth, and then I used what was left and mixed it with the bark that we made cigarettes out of. Incidentally, this bark was great stuff. I do not know what kind of tree it was from, but it served the purpose. Whenever a fellow wanted to smoke and lit one of these bark cigarettes, a few puffs were enough.

The First and Last Cigarette.

He did not want to smoke again for some time afterward, and like as not, he did not want to eat either. They were therefore very valuable.

It is very hard to get matches in the camps, and when any prisoner does get hold of one, it is made to last a long time. Here is how we make a match last. Some one gives up the sleeve of his coat, and the match is carefully lit, and the coat sleeve is burned to a crisp. Then we take a button from our coats—the buttons are brass with two holes in them—pass a shoestring through the holes, knot the ends, and with the button in the center of the string, buzz it around as you have seen boys do, with the string over both hands, moving the hands together and apart until the button revolves very fast.

We then put a piece of flint against the crisped cloth, and buzz the button against it until a spark makes the crisp glow, and from this we would light our bark cigarettes. I do not think any man in the world could inhale one of these bark cigarettes: some of us tried and went right to sleep.

CHAPTER XXI.

A Visit From Mr. Gerard.

Late that night we arrived at Dulmen, Westphalia. We were rousted out of the carriages, mustered on the platform, counted, then drilled through the streets. In spite of the lateness, the streets were pretty well filled with people, and they zig-zagged us through all the streets they could, so that all the people would have a chance to see the crazy men, as they called us. Most of the people were women, and as soon as they saw us coming, they began singing the "Watch on the Rhine" or some other German song, and it was funny to see windows opening and fat faces, with night-caps on, sticking their heads out of the windows. They would give us a quick once-over, and pipe up like a boatswain: "Schweinhund—Vaterland—Wacht am Rhein!"—all kinds of things and all mixed up. So we gave them "Tipperary" and "Pack Up Your Troubles," and showed them how to sing. Our guards had no ear for music and tried to stop us, but though they knocked several men down, we did not stop until we had finished the song. Then, after we had admitted to each other that we were not downhearted, we shut up.

We would have done so, anyway, because by this time we were on the outskirts of the town, and we needed all the breath we had. The road we were on was just one long sheet of ice, and we could hardly walk more than four steps without slipping and falling. My shoes had wooden soles, and it was just one bang after another, with the ice and myself trying to see which could hit the hardest. Every time we fell—smash! came a ride over the back. I was getting pretty tired, so I said to some of the fellows that I was going to sit down and rest, and they said they would also. So we dropped out and waited until the guards behind had just about caught up with us, and then we would go on. We did this several times until they got on to us, and we could not do it any more.

Up the road a piece I fell again, and this time I did not care what happened, so I just sat there in the middle of the road until Fritz came up. Instead of giving me the bayonet, he made me take off my shoes—that is, he took them off of me with a knife through the strings—and I had to walk the rest of the way in my bare feet. It was about four miles altogether from the station to the camp.

When we got near the camp, all the boys came out of the barracks and lined up along the barbed wire, and yelled us a welcome. We asked them if they were downhearted, and they said no, and we said we were not either. We could hardly see them, but they began yelling again when we got nearer, and asked us, "Is there anyone there from Queenstown?" and then Hull, and Portsmouth, and Dover, and Toronto and a lot of other places.

I did not pay much attention until I heard, "Any Americans there?" and I yelled back, "Yes, where are you?" "Barracks 6-B, Gruppe 3." "Where from?" I yelled.

"Boston. Where're you from?" "The U. S. A. and Atlantic ports. See you later."

So, the next morning, I went over to his barracks and asked for the Yank. They pointed him out to me, where he was lying on the floor. I went over and laid down with him, and we had quite a talk. I will not give his name here for certain reasons.

He had received several wounds at the time he was taken prisoner. He had been in the Canadian service for two years. We used to talk about New York and Boston and the different places we knew in both towns, and we also talked a lot about the rotten treatment we were receiving, and tried to cook up some plan of escape. But every one we could think of had been used by some one else, and either had failed, or the Huns had fixed it so the plan could not be tried again. We doped out some pretty wild schemes at that. Altogether, we became great pals, and dulmen together as much as possible at Dulmen. The day I left the camp, he gave me a ring made from a shell, and told me to get it safely back to the States, but some one stole it at Brandenburg.

One day while I was in his barracks an Englishman stepped out of the door for some reason or other, and though he did not say a word to Fritz, in two minutes he was dead, in cold blood. We never knew why they killed him.

Dinner Stories

The Decekers were entertaining callers one afternoon, and while the grownups were talking the baby crept on the floor. Suddenly there was a loud bump and a wild wail. It came from the direction of the piano.

"Oh, Earl, the baby has hurt himself," cried Mrs. Decker. "Run quick, dear."

The young father had already dashed toward the piano. He dropped on his knees and groped around the piano for his injured offspring. Presently he returned.

"Oh, the poor darling! Is it a bad bump?" asked one of the guests.

"No," he answered, "fortunately his head hit the soft pedal!"

Grown old in the service of his master and mistress, James was a privileged guest at table one day, when a guest asked for a fish fork, but the request was ignored.

Then the hostess noticed the episode and remarked, in a most peremptory manner:

"James, Mrs. Jones hasn't any fish fork. Get her one at once."

Ugly, Unsightly Pimples Are Signals of Bad Blood

Give Heed to the Warning.

Pimples on the face and other parts of the body are warnings from Nature that your blood is sluggish and impoverished. Sometimes they form eczema, boils, blisters, scaly eruptions, and other skin disorders that burn like flames of fire.

They mean that your blood needs S. S. S. to purify it and cleanse it of these impure accumulations that can cause unlimited trouble. This remedy is the greatest vegetable blood purifier known, and contains no minerals or chemicals to injure the most delicate skin.

Go to your drugstore, and get a bottle of S. S. S. today, and get rid of those unsightly and disgusting pimples, and other skin irritations. And it will cleanse your blood thoroughly. If you wish special medical advice, you can obtain it without charge by writing to Medical Director, 29 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Saloff, from near Sharon, motored through here on their way to Harvard "Fishes". Miss Golden Ward is a guest at the Mrs. Mary Gates home.

Brevier: Manatopias.

The objects, processes and creatures of the world of nature are so strikingly suggestive and exemplary of moral truth that one cannot but feel that it was in the mind of the Creator to thus have the natural interpret the supernatural, the material the spiritual. Thus the natural world becomes a vast kindergarten, a revolving show-case. More than any other teacher of men Jesus divinely handled the whole familiar world. He spoke of lilies, vines and corn. He spoke of the fig tree, and of wheat, bread, flax, cloth, eggs, fish and candles. He engraved these things on men's hearts with words singularly

The Master takes him
